Lookin' Around with "Mac"

Hope springs eternal in the heart of the mining man. If it were not so, hundreds of rich gold claims in this county would never have been reopened and wealth beyond calculation would never have been uncovered.

It is especially heartening to see old-timers, men who worked gravel in the old days of long-toms and monitors, return with fresh vigor to the diggings.

Ninety-eight years ago a sail-maker named Chabot rigged up a piece of canvas hose about 35 feet long and about four inches in diameter. Using water under slight pressure, he was able to wash gravel faster than he could with a long-tom. His claim was in Buckeye Ravine, just north-east of Sugarloaf and only a stone's throw from the rich burrowing of Coyoteville. Unwittingly, he had introduced the first crude device in hydraulic mining, which for the next 20 years was to produce millions of dollars in gold from the ground near Nevada City.

From almost any place in the city you can see the high bluffs of the hydraulic scars at the place now known as Manzanita Diggings. Not over a half-mile from the courthouse, the edge of the scar touches Highway 20 on the east side of town. It was in this area that hydraulicking got its start.

Geologists claim that the Manzanita Diggings, like many others on Harmony and San Juan ridges, were rich because they revealed the sedimentary deposits of an ancient river channel. We can't understand the technical goobledegook of the miner but see some valid rationalization in the line that "gold is where you find it." It also makes good sense to speculate on where you would lie if you were a tired nugget and got washed up by an ancient river. This kind of speculation at least stimulates human hope and without hope the miner wouldn't have the strength to lift a shovel.

But to get back to the story. Six mining men, all experienced in handling gravel, have concluded that the old Manzanita Diggings didn't reach the real pay dirt, that the real river bed lay many feet deeper. They have joined in a labor pool, thrown together common supplies and equipment, and effected a lease from A. M. Mull, Sr., owner of a large tract which includes Sugarloaf and a part of Harmony Ridge.

They prefer no publicity, which is understandable mining psychology, but the recent burning of brush on the hillside has drawn considerable attention to the project.

The plan is to dig an incline until they reach the ancient river bed. There they expect to encounter the bed-rock accumulations of nuggets which the hydraulickers missed. They are not selling stock in their enterprise, they are not hiring labor, and they are not inviting visitors. Which doesn't mean they are anti-social. They have seen bubbles burst in their time and they figure wisely that their loss cannot be great if their hopes do not "pan out."

We tramped over the Manzanita Diggings the other day when the sun was warm and bright. We saw more than the sights and smells of springtime; we saw tangible evidence of Hope. And that's important to all of us.

GRAND JURORS MAY STUDY NID OPERATIONS

The Nevada county grand jury may examine the operations and practices of the Nevada irrigation district.

This was indicated Friday at a meeting of NID directors when a letter from a grand jury committee was read, asking that Elton Tobiassen, NID assessor, be made available to the committee for compilation of district data.

P. J. Minasian, NID attorney, explained to Charles R. Kitts, a member of the grand jury, who was attending the meeting, that Tobiassen is not qualified to assemble information on all NID functions and was qualified only to aid in assessment studies. Minasian added, however all departments, employes and records are open to scrutiny at all times.

The directors of the NID voted future ditch extensions to new water users will be made only on the condition prospective users build or finance the ditch construction. The users will be credited with the cost of construction and will start paying for water when the credit is equalized.

NO P. O. TROUBLE HERE

Despite complaints that Roseville letters take three days to travel to Grass Valley, local patrons do not report such service. Ralph W. Kuska reports he got a letter today without delay that was only identified as Shetland Sheep Dogs, Nevada City, Calif.

NEW RELEASE SHOW SCHEDULED SUNDAY

"Two Tickets to Tomahawk," a picture which had its world premiere last night in San Francisco, has been booked for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Cedar theatre, according to an announcement by Ralph Achey, manager of the local film palace.

The picture, which stars Dan Dailey and Anne Baxter, is being shown at the Cedar theatre before any any other place in northern California.

Achey said this is a picture he believes will be greatly enjoyed by the film-going fans of this district.

WATER OFFICIAL PANS FEDERAL ENCROACHMENT

Water district officials, water users and legislators from an area extending from Mariposa to Butte counties met in Grass Valley on Monday evening for a three hour open forum on factors affecting the territory's economy.

The group without taking any definite action informally agreed the following problems are of immediate interest to the area:

1. The socalled increasing encroachment of federal water control agencies into problems previously considered as local or of interest to the state.

2. Potential new demands for irrigation water on foothill areas previously considered as not adaptable to irrigation.

3. Population increase of the state which is affecting both the metropolitan and mountain sections.

4. The importance of power generation and proper division of revenues accruing from electric power production.

Taking part in the meeting were State Senator Harold Johnson, Roseville; Assemblyman Francis B. Lindsay, Loomis; George Anderson, Byron, president of the California Irrigation District association; Robert Durbrow, San Francisco, executive secretary of the CIDA; B. L. Smith, San Francisco, secretary of the state water economic committee and more than 80 water district officials and water users of irrigation districts.

Assemblyman Lindsay pointed out mountain counties can consider thousands of acres of foothill lands, previously termed not irrigable, as open to possible irrigation because of new developments in sprinkling methods for pasture and orchard lands.

Anderson condemned federal agencies for what he termed the intrusion into California's water situation with elaborate programs which he described as designed to take over the state's natural resources.

FRENCH CORRAL SCHOOL TO BE SOLD TO HIGHEST BIDDER AT SALE TODAY

County Clerk Ralph E. Deeble will auction off the historic old French Corral school house this afternoon at 1:30 on the school house porch to the "highest bidder."

The way feeling his risen in the sleepy little community of the San Juan ridge, there in all probability will be only one bid. Anyone who would bid against the obviously embattled natives would either have the hide of a rhinoceros or not value his hide at all.

Anyway, at auction time it is expected the largest crowd in 70 years will gather at the historic 95-year-old school this afternoon to await developments.

The rumpus all started when two community groups of the ridge sought the building as a community hall. The board of supervisors heard both groups and in Solomon fashion compromised by offering the building to the highest bidder.

That served to unite the two factions and last reports have them entrenched, financially too, for this afternoon.

LEADING CITIZEN WM. V. TAMBLYN CALLED TO REST

Death came Monday morning for one of Nevada City's most prominent native sons: William V. Tamblyn, 75, after an illness of ten days.

Funeral services were held at Holmes Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon with the Nevada City Elks Lodge in charge. Interment was at Forest View cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Fortier, George Calanan, Jack Keegan, Curtis Clark, Otis Brown and Robert Steger Sr.

Honorary pallbearers were Joseph Stenger, Joseph Huy, Philip G. Scadden, Judge James Snell, Dave Richards and Horace Curnow.

Tamblyn was born at Gold Flat April 14, 1875, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tamblyn, who came here in 1865 as a mining foreman and remained as minister of the Methodist church.

A great athlete he starred in football and billiards and was a brilliant pitcher of baseball.

While returning from employment in Wyoming he stopped in Tonopah when it became a boom town in 1901. While there he was married to Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pollard, on Aug. 4, 1901.

He numbered among his many friends Governor Tasker L. Oddie of the silver state.

He returned to Nevada City and operated a photograph studio in the old E. A. Moore place, and with a group of men became interested in the Broadway theatre located on the present site of the Alpha store. The present Cedar theatre and later a Grass Valley theatre was purchased and Tamblyn managed them until they were purchased by the T. & D. Jr. Enterprises.

Tamblyn was also one of a group of men who took over the tottering Nevada County Narrow Gauge railway in the late 20's and restored it to a vigorous life which ended with the recent war.

Tamblyn joined the local lodge of Elks in 1904 and had been active through the years. He was tyler of the lodge at the time of his death.

Surviving are his wife, Emily, Nevada City; daughters, Mrs. Florence Huntley, Loyalton; Mrs. Ervina Shattuck, Truckee; Miss Vivian Tamblyn, Ventura; Mrs. Ruth Hooper, Grass Valley, and Mrs. Dorothy Spooner, Stockton; sons, William L. Tamblyn and Robert L. Tamblyn, Nevada City, and Ben Tamblyn, San Francisco; and a brother, Harry Tamblyn, Heppner, Ore.; and several grandchildren.

YUBA COLLEGE COACH IS JUNIOR SPEAKER

Walf Oglesby, football coach of Yuba college, Marysville, will be guest speaker at the first dinner meeting of the newly organized Nevada City Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at the National hotel, acording to an announcement by Ken Wray, program chairman for the dinner.

In addition to a sports talk by a coach who took Yuba college out of the gridiron doldrums to a successful season last fall, motion pictures of sports will be projected by Ralph Childers, who is assisting Wray. The pictures will feature highlight of 1948 football season and a short on "Offensive Football."

Oglesby, a proponent of the short punt offensive formation, enjoyed singular success as coach at Willows high school before stepping into college ranks.

George Halstead is in charge of dinner arrangements. Dinner is set for 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

BOARD TO MEET

New officers of the Nevada City High School Parent-Teachers association will meet in the study hall at the high school Monday, in connection with the Public Schools week open house program. Mrs. Kent Walker will preside at a short business session at 7:30.

OLNSTEAD HOME AT NEWTOWN DESTROYED

A midnight fire early Friday completely destroyed the one-room home of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Olnstead, Newtown.

The couple and small child escaped without injury, but lost all personal effects and furnishings.

State forestry crews and trucks responded to the alarm, but the dwelling was enveloped in flames when they reached the scene.

The father, a World War II veteran, had returned home a few days previously from a San Francisco veterans hospital after receiving treatment for a heart ailment.

SCHOOL BOARD SECRET SESSION MARKS MEETING

A 15-minute secret session preceded the regular business meeting of the board of trustees of Nevada City school district Monday at the elementary school. No explanation of the session was offered.

In regular session the board commenced studies of the 1950-51 high and elementary schools budgets which were presented by Ed A. Frantz and Lloyd Geist, principals.

Frantz was instructed by the board to contact for applications from teachers to fill an addition to the high school staff under consideration by the board.

Recommendation that a mathematics and English teacher be hired was made by Frantz.

Fluorescent lighting of some of the system's classrooms was discussed without action.

Playground surfacing and a retaining wall at the elementary school was also considered and the board accepted a $25 bid for a Ford truck offered for sale by the high school. The board approved a suggestion by Frantz the board purchase six announcements for each graduating senior.

A letter from David Hartman, Grass Valley accountant, reported books of the elementary school were in satisfactory condition but the high school books still required attention.

The board tabled a bill for $100 presented by Hartman with the letter for services subsequent to the audit of last fall.

The board of trustees will tour the school plants tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FREE GOLD MART MAY STABILIZE WORLD FINANCE

Establishment of a free market for gold, a move which backers predict would lead to a determination of gold's true value with the probable resultant stabilization of world economy, was advocated here Sunday by Neil O'Donnell, vice president and general manager of the Idaho-Maryland corporation, at a meeting of the California Hydraulic Mining association at the National hotel.

O'Donnell did not predict a free market for gold necessarily would produce an immediate increase in gold prices. He said, however, open trading might result in a price increase and definitely would determine gold's proper value in world trade.

Commenting on the devaluation of the British pound sterling and the accompanying devaluation of other foreign monies he said it benefited Great Britain and other nations by giving them foreign markets previously held by the U. S. He pointed out the U. S. could have followed with competitive devaluation but refrained because of the belief that Britain needed aid.

O'Donnell also spoke against a proposed congressional measure which would place mining block leasers under the provisions of the social security law so the leasers would become employees instead of independent contractors.

JUDGE SCORES CITY COUNCIL'S MAYOR CHOICE

Thomas F. Taylor was elected mayor of Nevada City by the new council in special session at city hall last night.

Disregarding an eloquent plea by George L. Jones, retired Nevada county superior court judge, to deny the high office of mayor to Taylor, the council approved the motion for election made by Councilman William Mullis.

Councilman H. F. Sofge refused to vote. Councilmen Leo Cullen and Marvin Haddy favored the motion.

Judge Jones addressed the council at length immediately after the Taylor motion was made, not sparing personalities in his attack on Taylor's record in support of Arthur Innis, former mayor, who was defeated at last week's election.

"Tom Taylor was allied with Innis. He stood strongly with the man who was defeated by the voters. Taylor's record in support of the slot machine licensing issue cannot be forgotten by the people and Taylor should not now take a seat of authority in the face of Innis' decisive defeat," Jones declared.

At this point, the judge completed his remarks and Taylor rose and said, "Judge Jones, I respect your courage and honesty but I cannot refuse to accept this nomination."

City Clerk George H. Calanan, who sat as acting chairman, remarked that the slot machine issue was now dead, that the legislature had lifted the responsibility from municipal enforcement. Then followed a sharp exchange of views between Calanan and Jones, with the clerk defending Taylor and his own right to speak his views. Calanan declared that Taylor was technically better prepared to preside and that he had held office on the council longer than any other.

The judge repeated his arguments, cross-examined another citizen who spoke briefly on behalf of Taylor, and declared "The election of Tom Taylor as mayor would be an affront to the voters of Nevada City."

Taylor interrupted to say that he resented the accusation that he "fought for the slots." He said he did not support Innis on all issues, that he opposed him on the matter of a master license plan for the gambling machines.

Cullen said "A man cannot be condemned for past minor mistakes. The slot machine issue is out of our way now. I believe Taylor will make a good mayor."

Immediately after the vote was called Taylor thanked the council and, speaking to Jones, said, "Judge, we can promise you a clean administration."

The new mayor will also be commissioner of streets and Sofge was appointed police commissioner, the position traditionally held by the mayor. Haddy was appointed to parks, Cullen will retain his interest in sewers and lights, and Mullis will continue as commissioner of the water department.

John Larue was appointed city attorney and Calanan was named city tax assessor.

The city hall meeting was preceded by a brief closed secret session in the city attorney's office.

MRS. THOMPSON FILES FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Mrs. Carrie L. Thompson, who resides on the Lake Ve[illegible]ad, late Wednesday afternoon filed as a candidate for member of the board of trustees of Nevada City unified school district. She will be opposed by Harold Berliner Jr., who was a defeated candidate for the board last year.

Mrs. Thompson has two sons attending high school.

There are only three contests in the 16 districts, according to Walter A. Carlson, county superintendent of schools. Final date for filing was Wednesday.

The elections will be held on Friday, May 19.

Four districts, Chicago Park, Indian Springs, North Bloomfield and Wolf, have no candidates.

WILLIAM V. TAMBLYN

The following editorial about Mr. William Tamblyn was written for us at our request by one of Mr. Tamblyn's very good friends. The Nugget publishers, as newcomers, do not feel qualified to pen the proper eulogy for this native born citizen.

Again the bell tolls and we are made acquainted with the passing of one of our most respected citizens—William V. Tamblyn.

He was born at Gold Flat, one of a family of parents, half-sister and three boys. He attended the Gold Flat school, assisted his father on the ranch, and at an early age was employed at the Pittsburg mine.

An outstanding athlete, he played football and baseball, gaining fame as an outstanding pitcher for the local club as well as for the Tonopah club later. In order that he would not embarrass his father, who was a minister of the Methodist church, the newspaper reports always alluded to him as "Lengthy." His father, with a twinkle in his eyes, asked him one day while in the company of several of his teammates, "Who is this lengthy baseball pitcher?"

Tamblyn went to Wyoming and contracted to run a tunnel, and on the way home went to Tonopah. Among the first arrivals ,he secured a lease on the old Tonopah Vein and made some money. He could have made very much more had he accepted an offer that would have left out his boyhood friends. His refusal to double-cross was prompt—a characteristic from which he never departed. He built some houses, acquired several promising properties but the boom soon busted up.

While in Tonopah he married Miss Emily Pollard over 48 years ago. Their oldest girl was born there.

They moved back to Gold Flat and later into town, where Tamblyn conducted a photograph studio on Pine street. Becoming interested in the motion picture business he was manager of a 200-seat house where now stands the Alpha Stores. He later purchased the Nevada Theatre and still later the business of Woods and Williams show in the old Auditorium in Grass Valley. He was manager of both town shows until they were purchased by the present owners.

Tamblyn was vice president and director of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad until it was sold to outside parties several years ago. He was an avid sportsman, excelled in every phase of these activities, and could and did mingle with men from all walks of life and not find himself at a disadvantage. He was a past president of the Native Sons of the Golden West, member of the Masonic fraternity, and Tyler of the Elks lodge.

A kind and considerable husband and father, his large and outstanding family were champs. His many friends join in expressing to them their deepest sympathy. His droll wit, his affable and gracious manner made him a general favorite with all.

Boon companion, wise counsellor, faithful friend, we bid you a long and a last farewell. May the garlands of flowers that have banked your final resting place with their tender lips and perfumed breath, speak to you in beauty and fragrance, sentiments that are too tender for words.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL—DEMOCRACY IN ACTION

Nevada City elementary and high schools will join in state-wide Public Schools week April 24-29.

The slogan of the annual observance is "The Public School—Democracy in Action" and in selecting this slogan sponsors of the Public Schools Week have chosen wisely.

The public school system is a distinctive facet of the American way of life. It is established in both rural and urban communities and through its operation supported by all citizens through equitable tax assessments continually nourishes the seeds of democracy.

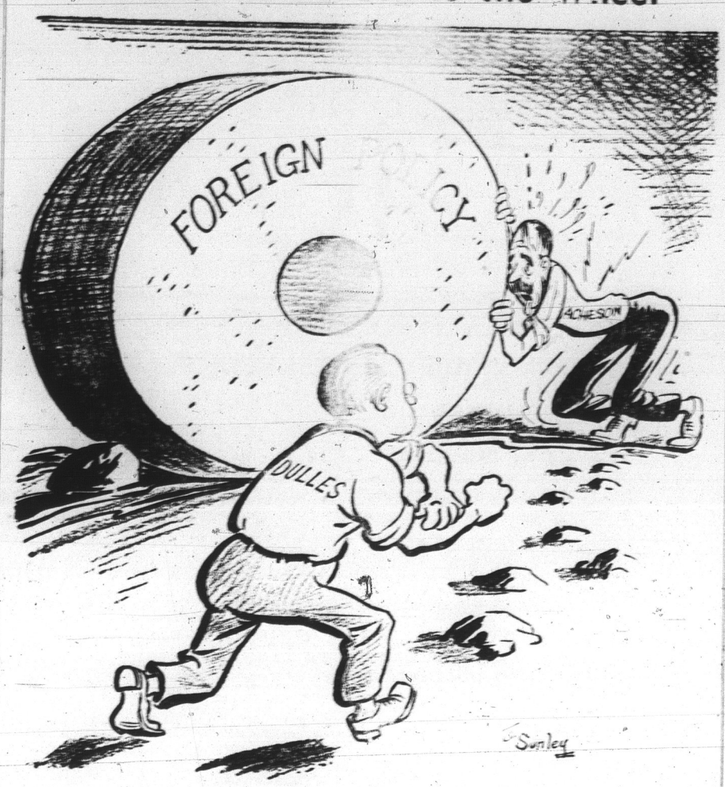
Continually the students have before them the living examples of the typical American character which has made this country great. Continually they are grounded in the fundamentals of democracy and patriotism which will enable this nation to remain a shining example to all freedom-loving men.

The burden placed upon administrators and teachers of the public school system is great. To them has been delegated a responsibility by the public and it is only fitting that once each year to give an accounting of their stewardship.

Public Schools Week provides not only this opportunity but also an opportunity for all citizens to estimate the value and progress of their public schools and to determine for themselves how wisely their system of public education is being administered.

Everyone is urged to visit the public schools during this week and see for themselves how well these tax supported institutions are fulfilling their responsibility to truly make them "The Public School—Democracy in Action."—scissored.

Another Shoulder to the Wheel



THANK YOU, MR. PRESIDENT

Harry Truman is no shrinking violet. Although he was very meek in taking over the presidency five years ago on April 12, time and turmoil have changed him considerably.

It is well, of course, that he has grown in stature and self assurance and it is a tribute to him that he has survived the rigors of his duties so well. But, unlike the humble person of 1945, we now find the president quite ready to take credit for virtually everything good in the country. In his press conference last week, which observed his fifth anniversary in office, Mr. Truman "admitted" that he is responsible for the fine shape he finds the country in.

Well, it's nothing unusual for a political figure to make such claims. But if one analyzes what the president has done or has tried to do, it might lead to the conclusion that if the country is well off it is more in spite of, than because of, the man from Missouri.

For instance, the Truman program which the president says is essential for the nation's welfare, congress has refused, in the main, to enact. The lawmakers have turned down his request for billions more in taxes, have rejected his compulsory health insurance proposals, the Brannan farm plan and several other major measures. What's more, they put through over his veto the Taft-Hartley law and a reduction in income taxes.

Now, this is not to say that the president has achieved nothing of importance in the White House nor is it an attempt to belittle his efforts. But it does seem that other Americans—about 150 million others—must also have had something to do with the nation's current high prosperity.—scissored.

The happiness of love is in action; its test is what one is willing to do for others.—Lew Wallace.

The standard by which all are finally judged is not wealth, education or fame, but service—Charles L. H. Wagner.

If you love and serve men, you cannot, by hiding or stratagem, escape the remuneration.—Emerson.

Is it worth while that we jostle a brother bearing his load on the rough road of life?—Joaquin Miller.

As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men.—Galatians 6:10.

Character is what you are—reputation is what you get caught at.

Breathing through the nose is good for the health—besides helping keep you out of trouble by keeping your mouth shut.

Before we give arms to other countries, we should know whom they're going to embrace.

The income tax collector may not be a jack-of-all-trades—but he collects it just the same.

Some people speak from experience, and others, from experience, don't speak.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder if the Yubas
Rushing downward to the sea,
Are singing now the same old songs
They used to sing to me.

I Wonder how many citizens of Nevada County have paused to look at and admire our rivers, since turned into torrents of surging water by the seasonal rains, they began their mad rush seaward.

We of this favored county have in our rivers an asset which causes the visitor from the "sunny southland of California to stand and wonder." Of course, some of the power which is inherent in mountain streams has been harnessed and commercialized, but the sheer beauty of the Yubas and contributary streams is perhaps the greatest asset of all. Our rivers have carved for themselves deep rock ribbed mountain gorges and the scenery along their borders is surpassed by none other anywhere.

So, at this time of the year, when tourists and hunters, et al, are trending this way, I'm saying "drive slowly through the wonderlands of this region. Drive slowly, not only for safety's sake, but in order that you may enjoy the scenic beauty through which you are passing. Collect a mental gallery of beautiful and majestic pictures, hang them carefully on memory's wall and you will find in them a never failing source of inspiration through all the days to come."

Of course, we share this wealth of grandeur with other counties of the north, but we shall let them tell the story of their own holdings in their own way; but now—now when spring is in the land, when trees and shrubs feel the thrill of life and display their charms in full measure, now when the wild flowers are beginning to bloom in rare profusion, now when rivers and streams make music in the hills, let's think and talk about our own county of Nevada and advertise her charms and wonders to the world.

I Wonder at the rejuvenating powers of baseball; that old game is just the spring tonic that most of us are needing and we should partake of it as often as possible. Listen to the baseball fans as they watch their favorite teams in action. Why, they have forgotten that there is such a man as Joseph Stalin. They are no longer worrying about Russia and her antics, about hydrogen bombs or the next world war; they are just happy, hilarious humans proving by their actions that people want to be happy and that freedom from stress and worry is the natural state to which we turn our longing eyes and for which we yearn.

Sometimes as we listen to the lugrubious reports of wars and rumors of wars, of stuffy investigations and smearing campaigns, we begin to wonder if America is indeed going to the dogs, then we go see a ball game, or we sit before our radios and hear one and we know that our land will never go to the dogs, so long as her people are so eager to go to the bats—and that awful gag proves that this is the season of spring madness and that in our great popular game we have a means of escape that is wholesome and sane, and good for every one of us.

I Wonder why we hear so much war talk and so little peace talk; our government, for instance is constantly telling us what to do in case of war, but the possibilities of peace are left almost entirely to our imagination. No wonder that our children are cynical and hard boiled, no wonder that their motto is in many cases, "eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we perish." No wonder that tired eyes and corrugated brows are becoming increasingly more numerous. What could we do in case of peace, what could we buy, or build with the wealth bestowed on camps and forts? Above all things else, why is it that we do not begin to educate the youth of the land in the arts and possibilities of peace?

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

Look how you save with Dynaflow

FIRST thing you notice, of course, is the bother and effort Dynaflow Drive* saves.

Next, that Dynaflow saves you physically—after long trips you're less tense and tired, more relaxed.

But then, as the miles pile up—and this comes from cold, recorded fact after Dynaflow's two years of public operation—you spot savings you hadn't expected . . .

You save on tires—because power application is steady, even. On clutch expense—the usual friction clutch is gone.

You save on transmission maintenance, and the rear-axle expenses likely to go with it. And the way your engine is oil-cushioned against normal shocks and strains shows up in less engine upkeep.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

You may well discover another pleasant surprise, too.

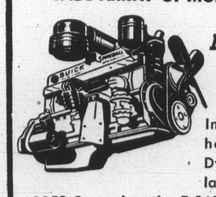
We are getting a steadily mounting number of well-satisfied letters about gasoline mileage with Dynaflow cars.

The SPECIAL has shown some records little short of phenomenal. The SUPER is delivering mileage that compares most favorably with gear-shift cars. And the ROADMASTER more than holds its own with cars of its size and bulk.

In short, there's a lot more to please your budget in the 1950 Dynaflow than its new lower price. Refinements over the past two years result in savings that are sizable over the life of the car.

Knowing that, don't you want us to demonstrate the big side of Dynaflow—the utter smoothness of America's first oil-does-it-all drive?

Only Buick has Dynaflow—and with it goes: HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.



Matchless Team—DYNAFLOW and F-263

In the Buick beauty pictured here you can have both Dynaflow and Buick's very latest in power. For every 1950 SUPER has the F-263 engine, that lively high-compression stepper that's the big power thrill of the season. Dynaflow Drive is optional equipment at extra cost.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT

This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Provincial Furniture Is Subject of Interesting Talk For University Women

Mrs. Kent Walker of Nevada City entertained the Art section of Nevada County Branch of the American Association of University Women Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Roger Snipe was chairman for the evening. Mrs. Don Hutton of Grass Valley was guest speaked. Her interesting subject was on provincial furniture.

Mrs. Hutton stated that the French provincial, which is simple and charming, was first made in France between 1710 and 1795. Originally these pieces were made for prosperous farmers but their merit was quickly recognized by the well-to-do land owners. Even nobility adopted them.

French provincial is used now in fine homes, Mrs. Sutton said. It is used well with our own early American in a more formal manner. It may also be used with modern.

Woods used in the French provincial furniture are usually apple, light cherry, pear, oak and light walnut. These woods are available in the provinces. The manufacturers who supply us with early American maple pieces also make the French provincial which is little more ornate than the simple early American.

Furniture pieces come and go, Mrs. Sutton added, but there are always the tried and true that are classics.

Early American furniture, as the name implies, originated with the American settlers.

Early American furniture was cumbersome and uncomfortable and are prized today only for their age and primitive charm. These types gave way to more comfortable and less bulky pieces and now we have the graceful Windsor back chairs and spoon foot tables.

Pictures of various styles of furniture were shown. Refreshments were then served. Those on the committee were Mrs. John Larue, Mrs. Elmer Stevens and Mrs. Richard Pfiffer.

Northern District of Civic Clubs Opposes Health Insurance Program

Northern District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, turned thumbs down on compulsory health insurance as set forth in SB 5 now being considered in congress to take the place of the voluntary health insurance system now used. A resolution to that effect was passed unanimously at the annual convention of the organization held in Placerville April 12-14 with Mrs. E. K. Lange of Colusa presiding. Copies will be sent to senators and congressmen representing 19 counties of the district.

It was also voted to protest the withdrawal of federal funds from the Indian agency in California. It was said that this withdrawal would seriously effect the educational and general welfare of the Indians of the state.

By-laws revisions passed would allow the district to nominate more than one candidate for the state offices and would set date of nominating committee meetings prior to Jan. 1 with the privilege of naming their own chairman. Five alternate committee members would be used.

Convention speakers included Mrs. Jay T. Cooper, state president, who made a plea for the speedy completion of the state project to build a hostess house in connection with the veterans' hospital at Yountville; Mrs. Earl Shoesmith, candidate for second vice president of general federation, speaking of the ways in which that organization can be of use to individual clubs; Dr. D. W. Bailey of Sacramento college, and Karl Holton of the California Youth Autority.

District summer conference is tentatively dated for Tuesday, June 20 in Chico Park.

Invitation of Sacramento Tuesday Club to hold the 1951 convention in that city was accepted. The date was tentatively set for April 18-20.

Mrs. Byron E. Brock represented Nevada City at the convention.

University Women Hear Speaker

Nevada County Branch of the American Association of University Women held its annual spring luncheon at Indian Mountain Resort Saturday.

More than fifty members and guests sat entranced while guest speaker, Ruth Prager, lectured about the three years she spent in Heidelberg, Germany, while with the UNRRA. While there she was in charge of nearly 450 young persons of nearly 18 different nationalities, who were attending the university.

While with the World Church organizations in Europe she witnessed the results of hardships forced on the displaced persons. Photographs of displaced persons, the hostelry of which Miss Prager was in charge, and the university of Heidelberg were exhibited by her.

There are still many displaced persons in Europe and Miss Prager has been contacting civic organizations throughout the country, making appeals for help for these unfortunate people. Those who have had the privilege of coming to this country have been fine citizens. They are allowed to apply for citizenship as soon as they arrive in the U. S. They are screened for tuberculosis and have many physical examinations before being allowed to mingle with the citizens of their newly chosen home.

Displayed were many beautiful works of handcraft made by these homeless people while in camps.

Children are still being searched for by their parents or other members of their families. Many have been found by the searching of records in institutions in Germany where they will find more children than birth records Miss Prager said. On questioning these children, it is often discovered that they will drop a word of some other language and often can be returned to their families.

Miss Prager works for the San Francisco Jewish committee for displaced persons.

She was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mirko Petkovic on Zion road while here.

POWER UTILITY PAYS 24 PERCENT OF COUNTY TAX

Pacific Gas and Electric company's 1950 property tax payments in Nevada county, on which second installment payment has just been made, total $237,851, according to L. R. Farrell, manager of the company's local district.

P. G. and E.'s tax bill amounted to 24.26 percent of all property taxes levied in the county.

"These figures emphasize the importance of P. G. and E. as a tax-paying business enterprise contributing to the support of county and city government, and to schools and special districts," Farrell said.

"Contrast this company's position with that of the tax-free government-owned utilities. They pay no taxes, while our tax bill in 1949 was equivalent to 1½ times the dividends paid to 160,467 stockholders, the owners of our business.

"Tax exemption inevitably results in shifting the burden to other taxpayers. The unceasing effort being made to supplant tax-paying business operation of electric properties with tax-free government ownership presents a danger to local governments and all taxpayers which cannot be ignored."

Total taxes of all kinds paid by P. G. and E. amounted to $319,278 for Nevada county, including $14,848 for the City of Nevada, and $40,276 for the city of Grass Valley.

The $237,851 total property taxes the company paid in the county included $97,240 for schools, $131,305 for county government, $7,549 for city government and $1,847 in various district taxes.

Ad valorem taxes on the company's property in the City of Nevada amounted to $4,623. Included in this figure were $1,299 for city government, $1,741 for county government, $1,583 for schools and districts.

Ad valorem taxes on P. G. and E. property in Grass Valley totaled $17,872. Included were $6,160 for city government, $5,931 for county government and $4,781 for schools.

Furniture Center to Open Nevada City Store Saturday

OUR CONGRESSMAN REPORTS:

By CLAIR ENGLE

Reapportionment

The census now in progress and the subsequent reapportionment of Assembly and Congressional Districts in the State can be very important to the foothill and mountain areas. It is anticipated that California will be given eight and possibly nine additional representatives in Congress. The total number of assemblyman will not, of course, increase because the number—80—is fixed in the state constitution. However, in the readjustments due to population changes the assembly districts could be juggled around a great deal.

The reapportionment is a very complicated process not only because of the political, economical and geographic questions involved but because from a procedural standpoint there are provisions of the state constitution, and the law which must be followed. The population in the assembly districts is supposed to be approximately equal and that is true also of the congressional districts. As an illustration, it is anticipated that each congressional district throughout the U. S. should represent approximately 345,000 people after this census. The figure is now 301,000.

May Split Districts

My district in the 1940 census is credited with a population of 218,000. On the basis of estimated population increases my district, comprising 18 counties, will still be a little short—something like 90 percent of the average for the nation. However, that may not prevent some radical changes being made during reapportionment. Reapportionment is usually worked out in the heavily populated areas first and then smaller and less populated counties tossed in wherever they will fit. The Second Congressional District could conceivably be split up with a few mountain counties attached to heavily populated valley areas. There could be a reshuffling of assembly district boundaries to put the foothill and mountain areas at a similar disadvantage in the assembly districts. This is a matter of some importance to the people in our area and should be given some thought!

The foothill and mountain areas have been able in the past few years to maintain a considerable amount of unity of interest because the congressional and assembly districts are comprised of counties of similar geographical and economical interest, and that may not be true after reapportionment unless our area is on its guard. Some consideration should be given early—and now is not too soon—by the community leaders to this problem and plans laid to be sure that the economic interests and unity of the mountain and foothill areas are not adversely effected when reapportionment occurs.

Daniel J. Higgins

AUBURN MAN TO CONTEST SIXTH ASSEMBLYMAN

Daniel J. Higgins, 33, officially entered the sixth district assembly race when he cross-filed with the Placer county clerk to oppose Francis Lindsay, incumbent assemblyman.

Though a registered Republican, the veteran of four years in Europe with the infantry will appeal for an endorsement from both parties.

Higgins currently has his own law practice in Auburn and is an alumnus of the University of California, the Hastings college of law. He entered the service in 1941 after being admitted to the bar, and following his discharge in 1945 practiced in San Francisco.

For several months he was a member of the California state legislative council in Sacramento. While working with this group, he was assigned the task of writing the controversial proposition 4 which was passed by voters to increase pension benefits to the blind and aged. It was later repealed as proposition 2.

In addition to his regular practice he is a part time instructor at Placer college where he conducts classes in commercial law and economics.

The assembly candidate was born in Colorado Springs and attended high school there before moving to California.

He is married to the former Anabel Fowler, a native of the Auburn and Newcastle area. Mrs. Higgins attended Auburn schools and the San Francisco college for women.

The candidate is the only veteran in the assembly race and is requesting the support of the people in his fight for honest government.

Higgins stated that he is outlining a detailed platform for presentation to the people and expects to release it in a few days. Among the points in this announcement, he said, will be a declaration for equal representation for all the counties he would represent and a promise to carry the load in working for the interests of the constituents.

SENTENCE TODAY

Superior Judge James Snell today will pass sentence on Roland J. Kerely, 33, who pleaded guilty to a charge of escape in Nevada county superior court on Friday. Kerely escaped from the county jail Feb. 22, while serving a one-year term for grand theft.

Dinner for the group was prepared by Mrs. Ralston; Mrs. Alice A. Briner, a sister from Broadview, Ill.; Mrs. Emily Willoughby, Grass Valley, and Mrs. Hattie Lobdell, Nevada City.

Among the ministers was Rev. Ruth M. Brown of the Pacific Methodist church, Sacramento.

Other ministers present were Rev. Willard Rand, Woodland; Rev. Donald Getty, Grass Valley; Rev. Clyde Teel, Central Sacramento; Rev. George Harrison, Elmhurst, Sacramento; Rev. W. R. Troutner, Courtland; Rev. Paul Logesdon, Maxwell; Rev. Maurice Cheek, Auburn; Rev. Clifford Ford, Oak Park, Sacramento; Rev. Porter Knudsen, Isleton; Rev. W. S. Traweek, Williams; Rev. J. R. TELEPHONE COMPANY ASKS RATE INCREASES

Announcement has been made by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company that it has applied to the California public utilities commission for increases and adjustments in certain telephone rates throughout the state, according to E. R. Ingalls, manager here.

Ingalls said that no change is contemplated in the basic exchange rates in effect here.

Particular interest attaches to a state-wide proposal to increase the coin-box telephone rate for local messages from five cents to 10 cents.

YELLOWJACKETS WHIP YUBA CITY HIGH BALL TEAM

Norman Ellis, first baseman, and Dick Penrose, pitcher, led a 12-hit attack against Yuba City Tuesday afternoon on the opponents' field and Nevada City high school Yellowjackets baseball team won its first game of the 1950 Sierra Foothill league 14 to 5.

Coach Ed Frantz, who takes his charges to Roseville today to play the Tigers this afternoon, was well pleased with the game and predicted many more victories for the squad before the season is over. The Yellowjackets will continue to Sacramento this evening to witness the Solons-Seals game of the Pacific Coach league.

The first home game of the season is scheduled here Tuesday afternoon at Pioneer park with the arch-rivals from Grass Valley furnishing what competition they can. Frantz announced late yesterday that the Grass Valley game will be played in Grass Valley, and that the first home game will be a week from today with San Juan.

Ellis blasted three hits out of five times at bat but Penrose's home run with two aboard in the first inning was the big blow of the game. Branson and Moody were on base from errors. Before Yuba City could get the side out five Nevada City runs had been scored.

The Yellowjackets added two runs in the second inning, and six in a big sixth inning. A lone run was scored in the final inning.

The Yuba City team scored in the first, fourth and fifth and twice in the sixth.

Penrose whiffed 14. Eleven of the local batters also whiffed the breeze.

In a practice game at Oroville Friday the Yellowjackets lost a 7 to 2 game.

PANTS HITCHING ENDS POSSIBLE WINNING RALLY

Tommy Green unconsciously hitched his trousers while coaching at third base in the ninth inning of Nevada City's opening game of the 1950 Placer-Nevada baseball league, and thereby hangs the tale of how the Athletics lost the game 7-6.

Babe Childers had drawn a free trip to first on a walk. Manager Steve Pelayo came in to pinch-hit for Ralph Childers. On the first pitch Babe saw Green hitch his pants and took off for second base to the surprise of his manager and the Athletics rooters. Williams, the Potter catcher, snapped the ball to Testa on second and Childers was out. Later events proved it would have been the tying run.

Pelayo flied to center field on the next pitch. Goldsberry drilled a daisy cutter into center field and Paul Stack drove a long fly into center field that ended the game.

Nevada City wasted no time and grabbed six quick runs in the top of the first inning, but those were the only runs the local prides scored.

Stan Jones, who was slickered all afternoon by Carnesecca's curve ball, drove the first pitch of the game over Bellotti's head in right field for a triple. Babe Childers walked. Ralph Childers grounded out but drove Jones in with the first run of the game. Goldsberry singled to score Babe Childers. Stack singled and Tommy Green was safe on a fielder's choice to fill the bases. Fouyer flied to left field to send Goldsberry home. Bryant singled two more runs in and Haddy ended the Athletics scoring with a single that pushed Bryant home.

Nevada City threatened to add runs in the fifth by loading the bags with one out but a squeeze play went haywire and ended in a double play. Goldsberry was safe on an error and Stack singled. Green bunted them into scoring position. Carnesecca intentionally walked Fouyer to fill the bases.

With the squeeze play on and all runners attempting to advance Tommy Bryant, attempting to bunt, missed the ball and Jake Goldsberry coming home from third base was a dead pigeon. A quick tag of Goldsberry and a flip to second base by Williams nabbed Fouyer going into the base and the side was retired to end the Athletics best opportunity to score.

Green doubled in the seventh but died on base.

The Potters picked up two runs in each of the first, fourth and fifth innings and scored the winning run in the seventh.

Green's overthrow of first in the seventh put Carnesecca on second and Bellotti singled him home for the winning run.

Bellotti was a thorn in the side of the Athletics all afternoon hitting two doubles and a single and making two good catches in the field.

Bellotti greeted Goldsberry in the first inning by slapping out a double, rattling the big fellow to the point he hit Santini and walked three successive batters to force in two runs.

In the fourth inning Carnesecca, Bellotti and Santini hit successive doubles for two more of the home town scores.

Goldsberry forced home Lincoln's fifth run by walking Williams with the bases loaded. Testa added the tying run on a fielder's choice.
